Special Stories

"Princess"

On the morning of January 7, 2003, a woman taking a walk in a local park found a puppy. She proceeded to the Rancho Cucamonga Animal Shelter with the little dog and gave her to the first Animal Control Officer she saw. The dog weighed about 9 ounces at the time and was approximately 2 months old. She was stiff, blue in color, and hardly breathing. She was held in a blanket by a shelter staff member for 4 1/2 hours until she regained her body warmth. She then began to have seizures. The staff took her to a local vet where she was diagnosed with low blood sugar and exposure to the elements. With medical treatment from the vet, a little honey water, and a lot of love she was eating puppy food within 24 hours of being delivered to the shelter. This little dog or "The Rat" as she is nick named, is a brown/white Tea Cup Chihuahua. She has been spayed and licensed and is now a shelter pet who is cared for by the shelter staff on a daily basis. Oftentimes, she travels with the Special Projects Animal Control Officer to local schools to help educate students about proper pet care and how animal shelter workers assist the homeless animals that are unwanted by society. Her story is shared with the students who love to pet her and she in return loves the attention. She is now 2 years old, weighs a little over 2 pounds, and appears to be a very happy, healthy, "Princess".

"Trouble"

Trouble is a chocolate Labrador / Weimaraner mix who was born on March 21, 2004. He was taken to the Devore Animal Shelter when he was only 10 days old. He was released by his owner to be euthanized because of a defect to his left leg and foot. The owners did not want him with the rest of the litter because they were afraid potential adopters would think all of their puppies had genetic defects. The shelter supervisor spoke with the owners and they agreed to allow the shelter to bottle feed and wean Trouble so that he could become a part of the Animal Care & Control (ACC) family. Trouble had a microchip implanted at ACC's 4th annual Be Kind to Animals Week Car Show & Carnival in May of 2004, he was neutered in June, and he began his obedience training classes in October. Trouble likes to spend his days greeting shelter visitors — all the time putting smiles on the faces of all those that he meets. What a cutie pie!
